Sierra Patriots, remain committed and supportive, respecting the values, participation and maximization of women in society. We are aware of the limited role women are playing in governance and we are also oblivious of the suffering of women in remote communities, where men are dominant as financial predators and decision makers and women as servants and prey.

We have seen how culture excluded women from leadership in some rural settings, women only restricted to fetch water, farming, providing food for families, with health facilities poor and hygiene low they are at high risk of medical situations. Transportation and mobility is predominantly for men and communication is also male dominated and women are mostly monitored and sometimes restricted. Preferences and priorities are centred around male child and in most situations, women drop out of education for early marriage, hence their full potentials not achievable.

This is further compounded with poor infrastructure and environmental issues such as charcoal mining and massive deforestation with traditional rulers and those in governance male dominated and sole beneficiaries.

Sierra Patriots, wholeheartedly believes in the positive transformation of women from rural areas, urban and the global world.

The beauty, passion and talents of women, production most asset is a value chain for governance and societal development.
